Introduction

Research at HEC is organized around “peaks of excellence”. These peaks are fields of research where HEC has a critical mass of researchers and a substantial scientific production. In 2015, we have updated our description of the six peaks of excellence and we have identified two emerging competition & innovation and marketing. The 2015 research report presents the activities and the outputs of all these fields.

In Table I, we present summary statistics for each research field. A large majority of our scientific production falls within one of our fields meaning that our partition of research covers a large fraction of our output. The next challenge is of course to strengthen the output and the reputation of our peaks of excellence. In the future, our two main objectives are more completed PhD (we expect to reach in the near future an average of 10 per year) and higher quality publications in our peaks and we will specially target publications classified A and B in our journal referential (included at the end of this report).

In 2016, HEC has confirmed its dual objective of developing research with impact among the international research community and among the regional business community. The visit of the international scientific committee (COSCI) in May 2016 has highlighted the progress made by HEC and set up the next milestones in terms of research productivity.

Actions will continue to be taken at both the individual researcher level but also at the aggregate level (peaks of excellence). Our aim is to improve the quality as well as the impact of our publications. In terms of impact, over the last 5 years, several scientific events (4th EMES International Research Conference on Social Enterprise, Corporate Finance Day 2013, French Finance Association Meeting 2016, etc.) were the opportunity to put HEC Liège “on the map” and to invite renowned scholars on campus. The events gather leading academics in various research areas with the local regional business community.

We will continue to promote research excellence at HEC by providing PhD and Postdoc grants, publication incentives. Our current challenge will be to work on key performance indicators for research productivity.

Research Organization

The Research Management

The coordination of all research activities at HEC is performed by an umbrella organization called “Prisme” acting through its Research Board.

Prisme coordinates, supports and organizes the scientific life at HEC. In particular, it participates to the financing of the Research (see below – Research Funding) and advises the Management Board in fields related to the research and the doctoral studies. The Research Board is composed of representative of the research centers and the departments.

The Academic Director of Research chairs the Research Board of PRISME and the Doctoral Program Committee. He is one the school’s representative at the University Research Council.

The International Scientific Committee (COSCI) is an advisory body of Prisme formed by top level scientific personalities in the various fields of research of the School. The COSCI gives its opinion for the assessment of the School scientific production and for the conception of its main strategic research orientations. It meets every two years but regular contacts are maintained on a continuous basis with the individual members and theme-based meetings are organized with some of them.

Support for the Research Activity

Two services help the researchers in their activities. The first helps them in their search for financing and in the relation management during the period of the contract. The second, named GPS service, administratively supports the research of the School. It aims at alleviating the administrative workload of the researchers. It gives guidance for the search of funds, for optimizing and organizing budgets. It also develops a strategic monitoring of all funding sources from the international and national institutions, corporations or associations.

The University of Liege has two services to support the research activity. The Mobility Center of the University of Liege can help researchers in all the administrative tasks in relation with their stay abroad and the international researchers in relation with their stay in Belgium. The ARD (Administration of research and development) provides support for organizing, managing and funding large research projects.

The Researchers at HEC have access to the Graulich University Library that provides access to more than 120 databases, including EconLit, Bibliothèque Fonds Quételet, Business Source Premier (EBSCO), REPEC, Cairn.fr, Dissertation Abstracts, Francis, Sociological Abstracts, ScienceDirect and a large collection of books (>400.000 titles) and scientific journals, available both electronically and as paper copies. In addition, HEC finances access to the main database notably Belfirst, Morningstar and S&P Capital IQ.

The Research Centers and their Articulation with the Peaks and the Chairs

13 research centers are the main pillars of the research activities. The table below summarizes the links between the peaks of excellence (our flagships of research), the research centers (the place where research is effectively organized) and the sponsored chairs.

The activity of our research centers is detailed on our website: <http://www.hec.ulg.ac.be/en/faculty-research/fields-research-centers>

Together with the service in charge of the communication, the research centers also develop some specific communication channels to their main partners and the scientific community.

The School research activities are directly feeding our training and educating activities. The specializations of our master's degree programs are directly linked to the School's peaks of excellence and to the emerging fields

The executive education is an integral part of our strategy. The executive education is viewed as a way to disseminate the knowledge developed in our research centers.

Closely in touch with the latest practices in portfolio management, fundamental equity research and financial risk management, the Finance Department of HEC Liège Management School has founded the “Center for Asset and Risk Management (CARM)”.

The current macroeconomic conditions pose a great challenge with regard to optimal public as well as private fund allocation.

The center runs an applied research program focusing on practical applications for education and the professional community. The research program is organized along four research lines.

1. Asset Management: Research activities on asset management focus on optimal allocation strategies under different economic context. The strategies which are examined in this program range from traditional portfolio optimization techniques under a mean-variance to advanced optimization under a higher-moment framework as well as to smart beta or alternative strategies. We evaluate the risks and performance of those strategies with a particular attention on the more dynamic trading strategies performed by hedge funds and mutual funds. Our future research agenda integrates smart beta strategies which have proved to be resilient to economic turmoil in the financial markets.

2. Financial Risk Management: Financial risks and their impacts on our markets are more than ever a matter of crucial interest to market participants, regulators and public authorities. Research activities on financial risk management focus on modeling and pricing firm and/or country specific market, exchange rate, liquidity and credit risks in equity and bond markets. Current work of our team concentrates on three research directions: (i) the role of market conditions in the underlying mechanisms and implications of financial risks, (ii) the analysis of the time-varying dynamics along which financial risks propagate across markets and market participants, as well as (iii) the way institutional and macroeconomic conditions alter markets’ and market participants’ resilience to risk across developed, emerging and developing markets.

3. Operational Risk Management: Research activities in operational risk management focus on the development of Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) strategies in HRO’s (High-Risk Organizations), based notably on the development of tools able to measure the level of safety culture and risk culture within these organizations. Establishing clear and precise links between the main human and organizational factors (HOFs) that are present in these organizations and the efficiency of ERM strategies that are implemented is then one of the major objectives of the on-going current researches and can be considered as the leading objective in our strategic plan when considering ORM.

4. Corporate finance: The program’s objective is to investigate drivers of growth in firm value. The program involves several aspect of equity research. First, it focuses on financial analysis and security valuation with its consequence on asset pricing and market anomalies in equity markets (size and book-to-market, profitability and investment policy). Second it focuses on private investments as sources of innovation and performance. We especially target the role of private investors (VC, PE) in those markets. Finally, optimal allocation strategy of private investors/entrepreneurs is part of our research agenda.

The academic and scientific staff involved in this peak of excellence develops researches on the evolutions of the workplace in a global and digitalized work. Three main axes may characterize such transformations and are developed by three research units accordingly:

- new forms of work and employment, technological innovation and organizational change (LENTIC)
- gender, diversity management and equal opportunities (EGID)
- skills development and knowledge management (Skills Management Cell)

Such evolutions pave the way to new developments in strategic HRM through organizational change processes and intrapreneurship skills, studied by the abovementioned research units.

Numerous publications and PhD theses are produced on these topics. The research activities of the peak are characterized by a permanent balance between pure academic research and action-research accompanying public and private organisations in the design and implementation of HR strategies and change projects, either in Belgium or abroad. A strong involvement may be observed with regional, national or international professional associations in the field (HR managers, diversity managers, etc.).

Within the University of Liège, strong research links have been developed with the Faculty of Social Sciences and the Faculty of Psychology (interdisciplinary ARC project, co-supervision of PhD, etc.) and could lead to further integration in the near future.

International partnerships have been established with other Universities either in Belgium (Leuven, Louvain-La-Neuve, Hasselt, Antwerp) or abroad (Paris-Dauphine, Lille, HEC Montreal, Wharton School, Bentley, Tilburg, Aachen, etc.).

The academic and scientific staff of the peak is deeply engaged in international scientific networks (the French-speaking Association of Human Resource Management AGRH amongst others, with positions of vice-president, coordinator of working groups, etc.). Senior professors are regularly asked to take part in PhD committees outside Belgium.

Several academic and scientific members of the peak are also committed in the study of intercultural questions in a global world and take charge of cooperation activities with developing countries, namely in Africa.

Research Seminar

Emergent identity formation and the co-operative:
Theory building in relation to alternative organizational forms (May) by NELSON T., Simmons College, Boston.

La Pointe Développement Economique Régional s'organise autour de quatre axes forts : politique urbaine, énergie & développement durable, industrialisation & croissance et politiques sociales.

L'axe politique urbaine se concentre sur l'organisation du territoire, de la ville, la localisation des activités économiques, l'organisation des services publics et du transport et le développement urbain en relation avec les nouvelles technologies. Les activités du Smart City Institute s'intègrent pleinement dans ce premier axe de recherche.

L'axe énergie et développement durable se concentre sur la réalisation des objectifs climatiques dans la région avec un focus particulier sur la question des énergies renouvelables et leur intégration dans les réseaux ainsi que le développement de ces derniers. De manière plus large, cet axe veut s'ouvrir vers les problématiques du développement durable pour lequel l'ULg a acquis une expertise certaine et développe des projets économiques de développement (VERDIR, Reverse metalurgy).

La croissance est au centre de la question du développement économique et les entreprises innovantes, performantes et compétitives sont le moteur de celle-ci. Pour cela, des politiques actives de soutien à l'innovation, à la créativité, à l'éducation, au développement des nouvelles technologies et le développement du capital à risque sont primordiales. La question de l'industrialisation/désindustrialisation qui est fondamentale à Liège et en Wallonie reçoit également une attention particulière dans ce troisième axe de recherche.

Les politiques sociales sont au centre du quatrième axe qui s'intéresse principalement aux problématiques liées à la pauvreté, au vieillissement de la population et à la constitution de capital humain par la formation. Sur base de travaux empiriques et d'études de cas, l'objectif est d'évaluer les politiques en place et de faire émerger les bonnes pratiques à implémenter tant au niveau régional que national.

The peak of excellence « Social enterprise and Business Ethics » pursues three major goals:

- to develop research in the areas of social enterprise and business ethics mainly from the perspectives of economics, management and organization theory
- to feed, through its work, teaching in the areas of social enterprise and business ethics at the University of Liège and elsewhere;
- to participate in building an ecosystem that fosters the development of social enterprises and ethically-driven businesses.

Research projects cover a wide range of topics, both at the theoretical and empirical levels, using quantitative and/or qualitative methodologies:

- conceptual work defining the notions of and related to social enterprise and business ethics
- statistics measuring the scope of social and ethically-driven enterprises and key indicators (e.g. size, employment, growth, ethical dimensions, etc.)
- social and environmental impact measurement
- ethics in business, corporate social responsibility and partnerships between social enterprises, foundations and businesses
- entrepreneurial profiles and trajectories of social and ethical entrepreneurs
- emergence and development of social innovations in new fields of activity (e.g. ethical finance, fair trade, integration of low-skilled workers, etc.) and in the context of the sustainability transition (e.g. recycling, renewable energy, short food supply chains, etc.)

- financing of social enterprises, philanthropy and social investment
- governance and HRM practices
- in social enterprises and foundations
- institutionalization, networking and public policies
- social enterprise and business ethics in developing countries

Research centres and researchers involved:

- Centre for Social Economy (CES)
- International Research Centre on the Public and Co-operative Economy (CIRIEC)
- Associated researchers at HEC

The research projects are developed together with other international partners, such as the EMES International Research Network of which the CES is a founding member and has hosted the Coordination Unit since then. Other collaborations have been developed with universities (e.g. Oxford, Cambridge, etc.), management schools (e.g. ESSEC, HEC Paris, etc.) and international associations (e.g. ISTR) that develop research in the areas of social enterprise and business ethics.

Research Seminar

How inclusive is inclusive recycling? Recyclers' perceptions in a cross-sector partnership in Santiago de
Chile (December) by GIOVANNINI M., University of Trento.

Research activities in the fields of supply chain management (SCM) and business analytics (BA) are focused on analyzing data collected from a variety of sources and decision making informed by data analysis and supported by optimization techniques, with the aim of enabling enterprises and organizations to improve their service levels and operational efficiency, in particular in the context of supply chain and logistics management.

The main areas of expertise are therefore analytical methods of uncovering business insights and predicting future situations with use of data (statistical analysis, nonparametric regression models, censored data analysis, discrete choice models, data mining, artificial intelligence, machine learning, natural language processing, pattern recognition,...), and also of recommending decisions (operations research, mathematical modelling and optimization, stochastic programming, combinatorial optimization, integer programming, exact and heuristic solution approaches, metaheuristics, functions of binary variables,...).

SCM is a major field of application of such analytical methods, and these areas are frequently associated in the so-called “industrial engineering” departments of many foreign universities. At HEC Liège, they form an essential component of our “business engineering” curricula and are closely linked due to the scientific profiles of the people in place. The research activities in these fields focus on the following application areas:

Supply chain and operations management: design and coordination of supply chains; design and coordination of intermodal transport networks; production planning and scheduling; vehicle routing in freight and passenger transport; inventory routing; vehicle loading in air and route transport; pricing and revenue management in transport; transport economics; network economics; statistical process control

Finance: portfolio optimization; stock market forecasting; operational risk management

Marketing: clustering customer complaints; question-answering systems

Research activities in the fields of SCM and BA are mostly based in the research centre QuantOM (Quantitative methods and Operations Management). QuantOM is the association of several researchers under a common label to stimulate and promote research conducted at HEC Liège (or more broadly, within the ULg) in the fields of quantitative methods and of their applications in SCM and other areas of management and economics.

The Tax Institute of the University of Liege was created as the result of a joint initiative of HEC–Management School and the Law Faculty, with the objective of encouraging multidisciplinary projects between the two faculties and beyond.

The Tax Institute comprises specialists from both faculties, and encompasses academic staff and practitioners (members of the bar or public office, tax consultants, members of public and international organizations). Specific areas of interest are: fiscal federalism, corporate taxation (including international and European aspects), personal income and inheritance taxation, indirect taxation (VAT and excises), environmental taxation, as well as regional and local taxation. Key disciplines involved include tax law and public finance law, tax policy and administration as well as the economics of taxation.

The Tax Institute also aims at developing multidisciplinary research covering fields such as criminology, history, sociology, psychology...

The Liege Competition & Innovation Institute (LCII)

The LCII is a research center of the University of Liege (“ULg”) created in 2013. It seeks to explore the complex relationship between competition and innovation in society, from both an economic and legal standpoints.

The LCII seeks to steer fundamental research on those issues in new directions, and possibly to influence the crafting of competition and innovation policies across Europe. To this end, the LCII focus its research activities on several, selected research axes.

Research method :

The LCII embraces the idea that cutting-edge research must be interdisciplinary in nature. Whether public or private, decision making is a multifaceted process, involving multidisciplinary considerations. Hence, the Institute promotes the coordination of complementary-but-diverse research capacities (law, economics, marketing ...) in order to analyze industrial policy issues with which private undertakings and public authorities often struggle.

To this end, the LCII pools academics from HEC Management school and from the ULg law school. The LCII also benefits from the intellectual support of the network of experts active in the context of the LL.M in Competition Law and Intellectual Property of the ULg. It also relies on a larger network of competition and innovation professional, built through the organization of regular academic activities in the past years, notably in the context of the Brussels School of Competition.

The LCII applies innovative research methods (empirical studies, experiments, creation of databases, etc.) in order to confront the intuitive reasoning usually relied upon by the legislature and the judiciary with the mathematical and statistical analysis brought by economics.

Dissemination – Community pledge

The ultimate aim of research in social sciences is to help bring societal improvements. To this end, the results of research must be popularized and each piece of work must be optimally disseminated through society while the results.

The LCII’s academic production is widely spread through internationally renowned scientific publications and popularized through mainstream medias (news press and websites).

To disseminate its work product, the LCII relies on the present website and a quarterly newsletter addressed to a mailing list of competition and innovation policy experts. The LCII also develops a “policy brief” strategy, which consists in systematically publishing executive summaries of research papers on its website.

Strategic Intelligence

Information is regarded as the essential raw material in today's business. In contexts of uncertainty and constant change, companies, which know how to collect, to organize, to interpret and protect relevant information effectively, are said to have a competitive advantage in the market. Therefore, making effective use of strategic intelligence is one of the most important challenges facing marketers today. We are interested in developing a comprehensive and holistic understanding of what strategic intelligence represents so that marketing managers can plan the future direction and growth of their business in accordance with the stated mission and goals, recognize emerging trends and patterns within the particular industry and subsequently predict potential problems that may affect the current operating environment. The recently founded Research Group "GRIS" (Groupe de Recherche en Intelligence Stratégique) complements our research in contributing a political and macro-economic perspective to this field.

Service Marketing and Management

The research in service marketing and management aims at examining functional and dysfunctional customer behavior in a service context with the objective to manage and improve the customer experience in any kind of service sector. The research topics investigated are strongly influenced by issues and trends that have transformed the way service providers develop and deliver their services to customers. We therefore put specific focus on key trends such as demographic and social changes, deregulation, digitalization and globalization as they have profoundly modified the context in which services are delivered and experienced by customers.

- Consumer experience in revolutionary services and in the sharing economy (access-based services, peer-to-peer sharing),
- Consumer experience in key services that have known many transformations (healthcare, financial services...),
- Service innovation, servitization, service infusion
- Organization and employee issues to guarantee successful service (organizational culture, employee competencies...)

Collaborative Economy and Online Communities

Modern information and communication technologies have created new business models and communication platforms that enable and encourage greater degrees of participation and collaboration. Thus, digitalization enables the democratic potential of alternative consumption modes and of online two-way communication resulting in co-created value and brand meaning with consumers. More specifically, our research aims at investigating the behavior of peer-to-peer customers in order to gain insight for developing successful segmenting, targeting and engagement strategies and on analyzing brand trust in online brand-based communities.
